

Discovery[®]

Personal Profile

Jeremy Chia

16 September 2024

Foundation Chapter

Personal Details

Jeremy Chia
jeremy.chia@vinted.com

Date Completed: 16 September 2024

Date Printed: 24 September 2024

Contents

Introduction 4

Overview 5

Personal Style 5

Interacting with Others 6

Decision Making 6

Key Strengths & Weaknesses 7

Strengths 7

Possible Weaknesses 8

Value to the Team 9

Effective Communications 10

Barriers to Effective Communication 11

Possible Blind Spots 12

Opposite Type 13

Suggestions for Development 15

The Insights Discovery® 72 Type Wheel 16

The Insights Discovery® Colour Dynamics 17

Introduction

This Insights Discovery profile is based on Jeremy Chia's responses to the Insights Preference Evaluator which was completed on 16 September 2024.

The origins of personality theory can be traced back to the fifth century BC, when Hippocrates identified four distinct energies exhibited by different people. The Insights System is built around the model of personality first identified by the Swiss psychologist Carl Gustav Jung. This model was published in his 1921 work "Psychological Types" and developed in subsequent writings. Jung's work on personality and preferences has since been adopted as the seminal work in understanding personality and has been the subject of study for thousands of researchers to the present day.

Using Jung's typology, this Insights Discovery profile offers a framework for self-understanding and development. Research suggests that a good understanding of self, both strengths and weaknesses, enables individuals to develop effective strategies for interaction and can help them to better respond to the demands of their environment.

Generated from several hundred thousand permutations of statements, this profile is unique. It reports statements which your Evaluator responses indicate may apply to you. Modify or delete any statement which does not apply, but only after checking with colleagues or friends to identify whether the statement may be a "blind spot" for you.

Use this profile pro-actively. That is, identify the key areas in which you can develop and take action. Share the important aspects with friends and colleagues. Ask for feedback from them on areas which seem particularly relevant for you and develop an action plan for growth personally and interpersonally.

Overview

These statements provide a broad understanding of Jeremy's work style. Use this section to gain a better understanding of his approaches to his activities, relationships and decisions.

Personal Style

Jeremy is an ingenious and original problem solver. He is a good listener, with an ability to talk well when appropriate. As he lives by a rather strict set of rules he may expect others to do so as well. Jeremy's skill at taking a very broad, long-range view of things contributes to his reputation as something of a visionary. Jeremy is realistic and dependable.

Jeremy is a curious and keen student of all that is going on around him. He typically does not take constructive criticism and disagreement personally. He welcomes tough, accurate, unrelenting critiques as helpful in achieving the highest levels of performance and objectivity. He may lose interest and move on to the next thing, once a job becomes routine or dull. He is quick to spot opportunities and see how they can be turned to his advantage. He is good at getting things done in an assertive way.

Jeremy systematically sets about achieving his scheduled goals on time in an efficient and effective manner. Under moderate tension, he is still able to reflect and become more efficient and effective. His knack for identifying and attending to key issues positions him well in dealing with an emergency. He expects authority to establish clear guidelines, so that he knows exactly what is expected and can relate to clearly designated lines of responsibility. Jeremy believes in doing everything the right way and his preoccupation with perfection makes him sensitive to errors or unfairness. He prizes his gift of intelligence and has a strong bias towards the attainment of personal competence.

Hard work, busy schedules and merit-based remuneration are hallmarks of the way Jeremy prefers to work. He is responsible and faithful to his commitments and obligations. He is persevering, with a singleness of purpose that he devotes to long term achievement of the mind. He is an ideal academic who continually seeks knowledge for its own sake. People with whom Jeremy works are aware of his excellent organisational qualities and commercial aptitude. He exhibits high standards of performance and he will not necessarily accept critical observations of his work.

Driven to achieve competence in all he does, Jeremy can spot the flaws that may exist in most situations and quickly see how to improve them. He dislikes confusion, inefficiency, half measures and anything that he sees as aimless or ineffective. He is a disciplinarian who can be tough when the situation calls for it. He can always see room for improvement and may spend his relaxation time trying, as he sees it, to make himself, and others, better. He aims to live by his rules and believes that everyone else should do too! He has a creative mind which can be used to bring forward thinking and originality to processes and projects.

Interacting with Others

Jeremy can be a diplomatic negotiator, prepared to try unconventional approaches. He is usually able to persuade other people to give their input. He does not take criticism personally, and is often surprised to discover that others may be hurt or offended by the constructive criticism he can offer. Most people have limited understanding of his complex, adaptable and creative mind. He tends to mistrust people who he thinks are ignoring reality. He may see his objectives and goals so clearly that he fails to take other views and possibilities into account.

Jeremy is alert to changing situations and will act quickly to get results, giving direction or instructions to others as he thinks is necessary. If his work constantly requires him to be warm and outgoing with others, he finds this draining after a while and may need to take some private time out before regrouping. He is impatient with people who read between the lines and who focus on the unseen and the unverified. Misinterpretation of his forthright communication style as rigid makes others somewhat reluctant to present alternatives to him for fear of rejection. He might confess to being puzzled by others' perception of him as rigid and intractable. This perception may result from his tendency to express his independent views rather directly.

Jeremy is not slow to help people come together to negotiate solutions if a project needs this. Although Jeremy may protest about the pressure of attending family events, it would seldom occur to him not to be present, as these occasions are important to him. He is not particularly discouraged by indifference or criticism. His independence can lead others to think of him as aloof. Jeremy likes to be valued for his directness and strength in relationships.

Decision Making

People count on Jeremy for insightful analyses and forthright judgements. Using past experiences to help him solve current problems and get things done is one of his strong points. He prefers to learn from personal experience and not just from study or reading. Jeremy can usually get to the heart of any situation and implement an effective solution. He is comfortable making conclusive judgements about others and tends to be a strict disciplinarian.

Jeremy's many accomplishments are achieved mainly through determination and perseverance in reaching or exceeding his high standards. In practising active and long-range thinking and planning, he is logical, analytical, objectively critical and prefers to be convinced by reason. In his mind there must always be a good reason for doing something and people's feelings alone aren't normally sufficient to influence him. Practical and realistic, Jeremy is a most matter-of-fact and thorough individual. Impatient with what he may see as inefficiency and incompetence, he can take tough decisions when the situation calls for it.

Jeremy is willing to admit the truth about people or things that are important to him, is very alert to problems, and seeks to find solutions himself. He values truth above all else and is primarily convinced by logical reasoning. He will pursue all possible avenues of a solution to any problem that captures his interest. His effectiveness depends on how much personal fulfilment he receives from the current task. He sees himself as realistic, practical and matter-of-fact, although others may not always see the practicality of some of his decisions.

Personal Notes

Key Strengths & Weaknesses

Strengths

This section identifies the key strengths which Jeremy brings to the organisation. Jeremy has abilities, skills and attributes in other areas, but the statements below are likely to be some of the fundamental gifts he has to offer.

Jeremy's key strengths:

- Pragmatic, rational thinker.
 - Outgoing and direct.
 - Drives himself and others to achieve results.
 - Brave, daring and bold.
 - Forceful negotiator and vocal decision maker.
 - Effective implementer, will readily accept responsibility.
 - Gets the job done and done right.
 - Realistic and systematic.
 - Assertive, strong communicator who thinks on his feet.
 - Practical ability in implementing tasks.
-

Personal Notes

Key Strengths & Weaknesses

Possible Weaknesses

Jung said “wisdom accepts that all things have two sides”. It has also been said that a weakness is simply an overused strength. Jeremy's responses to the Evaluator have suggested these areas as possible weaknesses.

Jeremy's possible weaknesses:

- May step on the toes of others to achieve objectives.
 - Sometimes overprotective of his own ideas.
 - Over evaluation can slow down his decisions.
 - Impatient with others he sees as having lower standards.
 - May rely too much on past experience.
 - Exhibits impatience with disorganised individuals.
 - May be perceived as unfeeling.
 - Could appear to be too demanding of exact standards.
 - Becomes defensive or dictatorial if challenged.
 - Spots others weaknesses but not his own.
-

Personal Notes

Value to the Team

Each person brings a unique set of gifts, attributes and expectations to the environment in which they operate. Add to this list any other experiences, skills or other attributes which Jeremy brings, and make the most important items on the list available to other team members.

As a team member, Jeremy:

- Analyses and acts upon team decisions.
 - Defends the truth and is not frightened to fight for it.
 - Can be relied upon to pull more than his weight.
 - Is unlikely to get side tracked by peripheral items.
 - Acts as the “conscience” of the group.
 - Quickly determines the important factors when problems arise.
 - Considers the practicalities of any issue.
 - Is not distracted by what he sees as petty personal issues.
 - Takes a no-nonsense approach.
 - Directs the team's efforts towards important issues.
-

Personal Notes

Communication

Effective Communications

Communication can only be effective if it is received and understood by the recipient. For each person certain communication strategies are more effective than others. This section identifies some of the key strategies which will lead to effective communication with Jeremy. Identify the most important statements and make them available to colleagues.

Strategies for communicating with Jeremy:

- Deal in probabilities not possibilities.
 - Be clear about expectations and timescales.
 - Use humour in moderation.
 - Stick to business at all times.
 - Be straightforward, fast, efficient and to the point.
 - Be patient if he starts hair-splitting.
 - Let him know he is in control.
 - Allow him time to consider all the information.
 - Be well structured and organised.
 - Ask for his advice.
 - Agree with him wherever possible.
 - Go prepared to get straight down to business.
-

Personal Notes

Communication

Barriers to Effective Communication

Certain strategies will be less effective when communicating with Jeremy. Some of the things to be avoided are listed below. This information can be used to develop powerful, effective and mutually acceptable communication strategies.

When communicating with Jeremy, DO NOT:

- Waffle.
 - Be too light hearted or superficial.
 - Try to build a relationship too quickly.
 - Challenge his authority “head on”.
 - Jump in head first or too quickly.
 - Try to manipulate him towards your viewpoint.
 - Come unprepared and disorganised.
 - Approach him with foregone conclusions.
 - Become emotional or excitable.
 - Question his motives or competence.
 - Digress or wander off at a tangent.
 - Try to control the conversation.
-

Personal Notes

Possible Blind Spots

Our perceptions of self may be different to the perceptions others have of us. We project who we are onto the outside world through our “persona” and are not always aware of the effect our less conscious behaviours have on others. These less conscious behaviours are termed “Blind Spots”. Highlight the important statements in this section of which you are unaware and test them for validity by asking for feedback from friends or colleagues.

Jeremy's possible Blind Spots:

Jeremy would sometimes benefit from finding out what matters emotionally to others. Sometimes rather closed minded, he may believe that someone else's ideas will not work as well as his own. Adopting a low profile is not always in his best interests. Speaking first rather than waiting to respond can help to balance the rather shy appearance he may project at times.

Jeremy has a strong active conscience and may not be prepared to even consider others' values and opinions, particularly if they are not prepared to follow his lead. Jeremy's ideas may occasionally get lost because he tends to rethink them continually, preferring to keep them private. He is something of a perfectionist, and can be hypersensitive to criticism of his work. He may adopt an “if you've got a headache take an aspirin” attitude, which indicates a lack of empathy to some. He has a “let's do it and not talk about it” approach to work, which others may find difficult to handle.

When under extreme pressure, Jeremy may choose to withdraw, but only to prepare for the next battle within his own fortress. He should learn to be more considerate by thinking through how his actions will affect others. He likes pace, but also plenty of time and opportunity to seek perfection in everything he does. A potential failing for him may be that he may not gain sufficient intimate experience of the world. His desire to continually explore new avenues may result in him regularly re-examining his conclusions.

Personal Notes

Opposite Type

The description in this section is based on Jeremy's opposite type on the Insights Wheel. Often, we have most difficulty understanding and interacting with those whose preferences are different to our own. Recognising these characteristics can help in developing strategies for personal growth and enhanced interpersonal effectiveness.

Recognising your Opposite Type:

Jeremy's opposite Insights type is the Helper, Jung's "Feeling" type.

Helpers are warm, understanding and sociable individuals who strive for positive relationships with people both at work and home. They are usually sensitive to others and work well in a team situation. However, Jeremy may observe that the Helper takes criticism personally and finds it difficult to become authoritative or objective with others when necessary. Helpers sometimes have difficulty in making key decisions without consultation.

Jeremy will notice that people are far more important to the Helper than the accomplishment of tasks. The Helper's nature tends to be personable, which may mean that Jeremy sees them as fickle or soft. Helpers can be stressed in fast moving, impersonal situations which change without warning. Helpers display their emotions and usually have limitless patience for those who are dependent on them. They will usually ignore judgements that rely heavily on logical analysis - often the judgement preferred by Jeremy.

Helpers will tend to avoid telling someone an unpleasant truth or tell it in an affirmative way. Helpers are accommodating and occasionally self-effacing and are always content to support others without expecting much in return. Jeremy may see the Helper idealising others and adopting a romantic version of people and their potential.

Personal Notes

Opposite Type

Communication with Jeremy's Opposite Type

Written specifically for Jeremy, this section suggests some strategies he could use for effective interaction with someone who is his opposite type on the Insights Wheel.

Jeremy Chia: How you can meet the needs of your Opposite Type:

- Be prepared to discuss a wide range of topics.
- Don't be too serious, dull or severe.
- Be prepared to share problems openly.
- Use warm gestures and expressive body language.
- Be prepared to negotiate solutions slowly, calmly and quietly.
- Use a casual, informal style of conversation.

Jeremy Chia: When dealing with your opposite type DO NOT:

- Assume that his sunny disposition means that he agrees with everything you say.
- Make critical comparisons in relation to other staff.
- Question or challenge his personal values.
- Assume you will complete all of your agenda.
- Create a hostile environment devoid of feelings.
- Be addicted to rules and procedures.

Personal Notes

Suggestions for Development

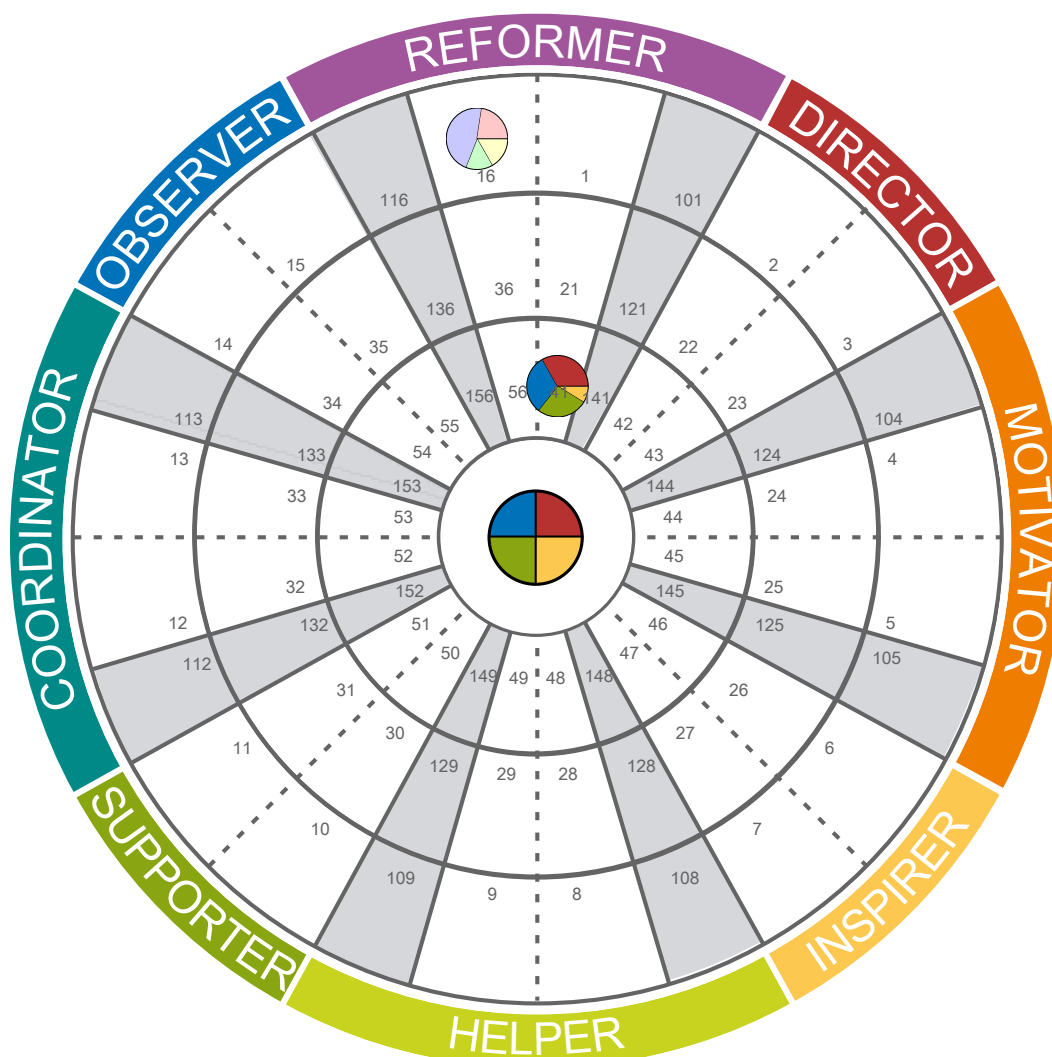

Insights Discovery does not offer direct measures of skill, intelligence, education or training. However, listed below are some suggestions for Jeremy's development. Identify the most important areas which have not yet been addressed. These can then be incorporated into a personal development plan.

Jeremy may benefit from:

- Ensuring his keen desire to criticise is positive and not negative.
 - Looking for the good in everything.
 - Refusing to think about or re-visit a previous decision.
 - Remembering that arguing does not stimulate everyone.
 - Being more open about how he is feeling.
 - Trying to hear and appreciate others' perspectives.
 - Making a special effort to show appreciation and to acknowledge others contributions.
 - Trusting his feelings more.
 - Keeping a diary and accounting for the happenings of the day.
 - Remembering that he is also vulnerable.
-

Personal Notes

The Insights Discovery® 72 Type Wheel

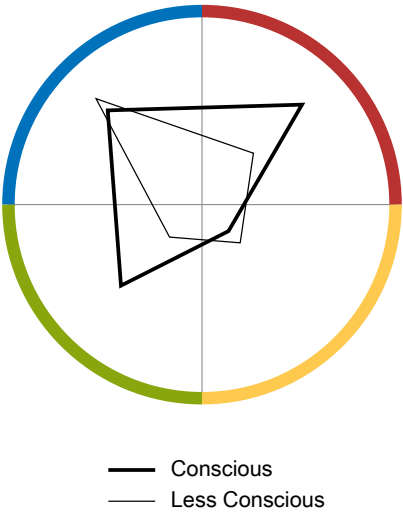

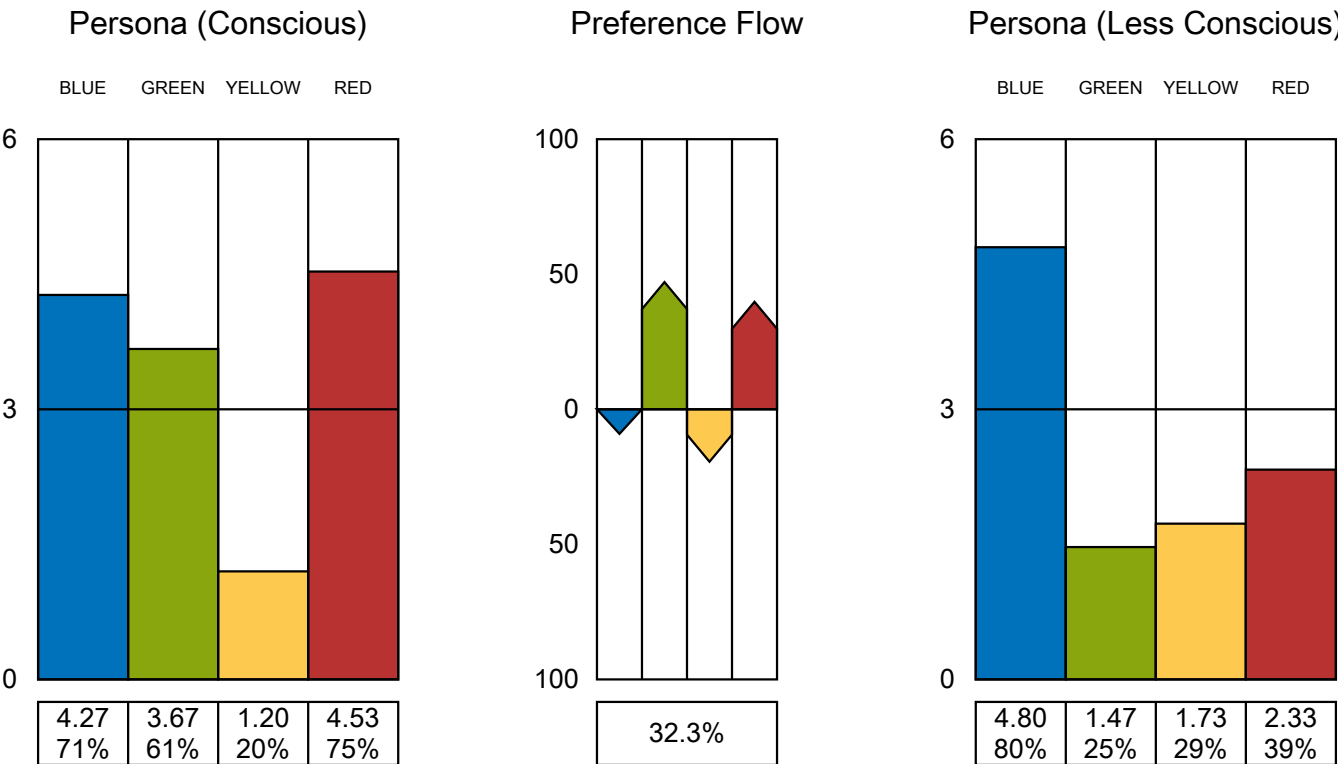

Conscious Wheel Position

41: Directing Reformer (Accommodating)

Less Conscious Wheel Position

16: Observing Reformer (Focused)

The Insights Discovery® Colour Dynamics

GLOBAL HEADQUARTERS

PROFILE: D_PR_RETENTION

Insights Learning & Development

Terra Nova, 3 Explorer Road, Dundee, DD2 1EG, Scotland, UK.

TEL: +44(0)1382 908050 FAX: +44(0)1382 908051

EMAIL: insights@insights.com WEB: www.insights.com